

YALE UNIVERSITY

Summer School of Alcohol Studies

EIGHTH ANNUAL SESSION

July 8-August 4

1950

LABORATORY OF APPLIED PHYSIOLOGY

Director: HOWARD W. HAGGARD, M.D.

SUMMER SCHOOL OF ALCOHOL STUDIES

Director: E. M. JELLINEK, Sc.D.

THE Summer School of Alcohol Studies of the Laboratory of Applied Physiology, Yale University, will hold its eighth annual session from July 8 through August 4, 1950.

The object of the summer sessions is to make the most recent findings of scientific research available for application to the problems of alcohol in the community. The educational program of lectures and workshops is designed for the needs of men and women engaged in professions or activities in which a thorough knowledge of the facts about alcohol problems will be of particular usefulness. Details of the courses offered and the type of students sought are outlined below.

The first two weeks of the Summer School furnish a general background indispensable for all those concerned with problems of alcohol, no matter what their particular interest may be. This portion of the curriculum takes account of the biological, psychological, historical, sociological, religious, economic and other aspects which must be understood whether the specific interest is in legal controls, education, therapies for alcoholism, community planning, pastoral counseling, industrial health, penology, or other particular subjects. None of these activities can stand alone; each must be integrated with the totality of the problems related to alcohol.

During the third week of the course the student body is divided into two groups for the majority of the lecture periods: Lectures for the first group are devised primarily for those concerned with legal, educational, religious and community problems; lectures for the second group are devised primarily for physicians, social workers and others interested in the care and treatment of alcoholics. There will be 53 lecture sessions.

During the second half of the course there is also a division of students into a number of workshops. The workshops will meet for approximately 12 hours each. Informal group meetings, visits to laboratory, clinical and other facilities, and individual consultations with staff members are also part of the program.

The Summer School is under the direction of Professor E. M. Jellinek, and the lecturers and staff consist of members of the faculty of Yale University and other institutions of education, research and public information.

The full scope of the course is best characterized by the curriculum of lectures and workshops outlined below.

ADMISSION

Qualifications—Teachers and school administrators, physicians, psychologists, clergymen and denominational workers, welfare workers, probation officers, those in personnel work, and other men and women engaged professionally in activities in which a knowledge of the problems of alcohol would be of advantage, will be considered qualified for admission. All other applicants will be required to have a college education or equivalent experience.

Application—Application for general admission must be made on the official application form.

Students for part courses will not be accepted, nor will visits to individual sessions be permitted except on special invitation from the administration.

All candidates for admission except Protestant clergymen and denominational workers should write for application blanks to:

Summer School of Alcohol Studies
Laboratory of Applied Physiology
Yale University
52 Hillhouse Avenue, New Haven, Conn.

Protestant clergymen and religious workers of all denominations should write for application blanks to:

Department of Pastoral Services
Federal Council of Churches
297 Fourth Avenue, New York 10, N.Y.

Application for Scholarship—Candidates for admission who wish to apply for a scholarship grant should read the instructions under the heading: SCHOLARSHIPS, below.

Closing Date for Applications—All applications for admission or for scholarships to the 1950 session must be submitted by April 28. Late applications for admission will be accepted until May 28. There will be few full scholarship grants available for late applicants, however.

Notification of Admission—All applications are reviewed by a Committee on Admissions and their decision will be communicated to each applicant by the second week in May or sooner.

COSTS

There will be two categories of fees. Category I: Ministers, physicians, social and welfare workers, probation and parole officers, teachers (elementary, high school and college) and other school personnel, registered nurses, graduate students, and many classes of government employees will pay a fee of $200 for the Summer Course, and the University registration fee of $25. The fee will cover tuition, room and board (18 meals weekly). Category II: All other students will pay a fee of $400 and the registration fee of $25. All fees not paid previously must be paid at registration.

Rooms and Meals—Students will be housed in resident colleges of Yale University and rooms will be reserved for them unless they give advance notice to the Executive Secretary of the Summer School of Alcohol Studies that they do not require room accommodations.

Blankets, bed linens, pillows and towels will be supplied. It is not possible to arrange to accommodate married couples in the same dormitory. Room assignments are made at Registration.

Meals will be served in University dining halls six days a week (excluding Sunday). Students paying the full fee in either category who elect to room or board outside will be granted remissions covering room and dining hall charges. Students attending on full or part scholarships cannot be granted cash allowances in lieu of room and board.

Students who desire to live outside the University should note that the administration cannot assist in locating quarters, and they are advised to make their arrangements well in advance since furnished rooms are scarce in New Haven. The School administration recommends that students plan to live in the University.

SCHOLARSHIPS

A limited number of scholarships is available and will be awarded to qualified applicants on the basis of merit and need. The scholarships are of two classes:

1. Tuition Scholarship: The sum of $100 will be remitted from the fee.

2. Full Scholarship: The sum of $200 will be remitted from the fee. Only a very limited number of Full Scholarships can be granted.

The School is desirous of extending the educational opportunity of the summer course to as many qualified candidates as possible. If the organization that sponsors a candidate, or the individual applicant, can afford to pay part of the expense, it is urged that application be made for only such part of a scholarship grant as is essential to enable attendance, thus making possible the extension of aid from the funds available for scholarships to a greater number of candidates.

Application for Scholarship—The scholarships are awarded by the Summer School of Alcohol Studies. Applications for scholarships, however, should be addressed in accordance with the following instructions.

a. Members of the teaching profession and school administrators should write to the National Education Association, 1201 Sixteenth St., N.W., Washington, D.C.

b. Protestant clergymen and religious workers of all denominations should write to the Department of Pastoral Services, Federal Council of Churches, 297 Fourth Ave., New York 10, N.Y.

c. Members of other professions, and all others who wish to apply for a scholarship should write to the Executive Secretary, Summer School of Alcohol Studies, Yale University, 52 Hillhouse Ave., New Haven, Conn.

REGISTRATION AND SESSIONS

Registration will be held on Saturday and Sunday, July 8 and 9, from 12 noon to 6 P.M. Accepted candidates will be notified, in advance, of the exact location of registration headquarters.

Other pertinent instructions, such as directions for receiving mail while at the University, will likewise be mailed to accepted students well in advance of their departure for New Haven.

The first session, as well as an introductory reception, will be held on Sunday night, July 9.

Room and classroom assignments will be made at Registration.

CERTIFICATION

Yale University issues a Certificate of Attendance and satisfactory completion of the course to those who attend and complete the entire session of the Summer School.
